Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1- 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,457,061 to Bal et al.

a. As per claims 1,7 and 13, Bal et al teaches a method for routing an externally generated message in a network, comprising: receiving at an ingress port of a network a message from an external network, the message comprising internet protocol (IP) source and destination addresses and message data (See col. 4, lines 35-49); translating the IP source and destination addresses to internal addresses that are non-forwardable in the external network; and routing the message data in the network based on the internal addresses (See col. 3, lines 50-58)

b. As per claim 2, 8 and 14, Bal et al teaches wherein the internal addresses comprise reserved loop back addresses (See col. 5, lines 51-63).

- c. As per claim 3, 9, and 15, Bal et al teaches receiving at an egress port of the network a response to the message, the response comprising internal source and destination addresses and response data; translating the internal source and destination addresses to external IP addresses; and transmitting the response data for routing in the external network based on the source and destination IP addresses (See col. 4, lines 25-34).
- d. As per claims 4, 10 and 16, Bal et al teaches storing an IP source address of the message (See col. 6, lines 1-5); and using the IP source address in translating an internal address of the response for routing in the external network (See col. 3, lines 54-57).
- e. As per claims 5, 11 and 17, Bal et al teaches wherein the message comprises a control message generated by a management station (See col. 10, lines 20-32).
- f. As per claims 6, 12 and 18, Bal et al teaches wherein the internal addresses comprise a loop back indicator, a identifier of a node in the network and identifier of an element in the node (See col. 10, lines 20-32).

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

U.S. Patent No. 6,058, 431 to Srisuresh et al teaches a method and system for network address translation as an external service in the access server of a service provider.

U.S. Patent No. 6,038,226 to Kainuma teaches a communication method and system for objects movable in network.
